

SUNFLOWER FARMS

SUNFLOWER SEEDS

October 1, 2008

Happy Halloween! This year, the most practical costume may be a Navy officer or a pirate - any character that would be ready to boat from house to house in case October's weather is anything like September. Hopefully all Sunflower boarders and their families made it through the floods relatively unscathed.

We have a new horse to welcome into E Barn - Elvis, one of the stars of the Midwest Horse Fair Mustang Challenge, with new owner DeeDee Seitz. Stop by and say hi!

Dr Koehler and Bristol Vet will be out on Monday, October 6th to give fall shots. Only Flu/Rhino is on the schedule for most horses. If you would like the rabies vaccine as well, or have any other special instructions, please make a note on the sign-up sheets posted in the barns.

If you still have a blanket info sheet that you're happy with, great! If yours has been taken down or needs to be changed, stop by the office for a new one.

Speaking of blankets, we have a few 'mystery' blankets in the laundry room. If you think you may be missing a blanket or cooler that you brought in to be washed, please stop by the office.

To get bills out to you before the beginning of each month, we are changing our billing schedule. Your bill will be sent out around the 20th of the preceding month so you have it when you pay your bill at the beginning of each month. Grooming charges will still be compiled on a monthly basis, but there will be a one-month lag. All other charges will be cut off on the 15th.

In Case of Emergency:

Call us on the radio, or the phone if you can't get to a radio. Because we're so large we have a system set up to guide emergency personnel that has proven very effective.

If you ever need to call 9-1-1 from Sunflower yourself, the cell phone towers will probably send you to Lake County. If you need an ambulance fast, insist on being transferred straight to Kenosha - it takes way too long for Lake County to communicate with Wisconsin's emergency teams.
